Architectural excellence: Calwer Passage nominated for the Mies van der Rohe Award

Date

13.10.2023

The Calwer Passage in Stuttgart is a nominee for the Mies van der Rohe Award for European Architecture in 2024. With its lush green facade, rooftop forest, and innovative sustainability approach, the building serves as an example of exceptional architecture in Europe. Since 1988, the Mies van der Rohe Award has been acknowledging outstanding architectural achievements in the EU every two years. It is awarded by the European Commission and the Mies van der Rohe Foundation. A panel of esteemed experts assesses the top submissions through a sophisticated selection process – even the nomination itself is an honor. More about the project >>>
